textile softseating is available in the same modular forms and dimensions as paper softseating, but is made from a lighter weight water-resistant polyethylene-based non-woven textile material. Like the paper version, each of the flexible honeycomb units has magnetic end panels allowing any two or more of the same size to be connected, opening up endless possibilities for shaping long winding benches and seating topographies. The flexible nature and large diameter of the fanning loungers allows them to be leaned on top of one another or against walls to create uniquely contoured shapes with backrests.
